Graham Nicholas possesses several characteristics that make him a great coach. First and foremost, his love and passion for the game is second to none. He brings an energy level to any drill, practice, or game that is contagious throughout the whole team. Beyond his passion for the game, his knowledge level and experience is shown by his ability to teach certain approaches & concepts through realistic and challenging drills. This approach is evident throughout games as well, Graham always had a way of getting the most out of his players. He has a way of being able to relate to players which makes learning from him fun and easy. The years that I was a player for Graham were not only the years I gained the most skill and knowledge of the game, but they were also the most fun years I've had playing the game. I will always look back at the great memories I have of being a youth player because of my experience playing for Graham.
